SIERRA CLUB SET 1

Request:

For each of the Company's coal electric generating units, please provide the following hourly information for December 2019 through February 2020, inclusive. If not available at an hourly scale, explain why not and provide at the most temporally granular scale available.

- a. Price ($/MWh) of offers submitted into the MISO Marketplace.
- b. Quantity (MW) of offers submitted into the MISO Marketplace.
- c. For each offer, whether that offer was accepted by MISO.
- d. Whether the hourly decision to dispatch a unit was made by Duke or through the MISO Central Market.
- e. Day-ahead dispatch status, including "economic," "self-scheduled," or other recorded purposes.
- f. Real-time dispatch status, including "economic," "self-scheduled," or other recorded purposes.
- g. Day-ahead unit commitment status, including "economic," "must-run," "emergency," "outage," or other recorded purpose.
- h. Real-time unit commitment status, including "economic," "must-run," "emergency," "outage," or other recorded purpose.
- i. Accounting fuel costs ($/MWh)
- j. Marginal (variable) fuel costs ($/MWh)
- k. Accounting variable costs of production ($/MWh), including fuel, variable O&M, and any other variable operating costs.
- l. Marginal variable costs of production ($/MWh), including fuel, variable O&M, and any other variable operating costs.
- m. Net generation (MWh)
- n. Locational marginal price received ($/MWh)
- o. Energy market revenues ($)
- p. Ancillary market revenues ($)
- q. Congestion revenues ($)
- r. Heat rate (Btu/kWh)
- s. Economic minimum level (MW).

Objection:

Duke Energy Indiana objects to this request on the basis that it is vague, ambiguous, overly broad and unduly burdensome as to hourly information for December 2019 through February 2020. Duke Energy Indiana further objects as to the request to explain why information is not kept in the granular detail requested.

Response:

Subject to and without waiving or limiting its objections, Duke Energy Indiana responds as follows:

- a. See Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-A. For purposes of this response, the information provided represents the Day-Ahead incremental cost offers to MISO for the Company's coal units for the given period.
- b. See Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-B. For purposes of this response, the information provided represents the Day-Ahead minimum and maximum capability offers to MISO for the Company's coal units for the given period.
- c. See Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-C. For purposes of this response, the information provided represents the Day-Ahead awards from MISO for the Company's coal units for the given period.
- d. In general, MISO controls hourly dispatch decisions. There are times, such as when a generating unit is testing, performing hourly maintenance, or other similar operational constraints when the Company determines the hourly decision and output level to dispatch a unit. Please refer to Confidential Attachments SC 1.1-D and 1.1-E.
- e. The Company uses a Day Ahead Dispatch status of Economic at all times. If a generating unit needs to perform testing, maintenance or other similar operations the Company will set the minimum economic limit to the maximum economic limit in order to signal to MISO the necessary loading of a generating unit. Please refer to Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-D.
- f. The Company uses a Real Time Dispatch status of Economic at all times. If a generating unit needs to perform testing, maintenance or other similar operations the Company will set the minimum economic limit to the maximum economic limit in order to signal to MISO the necessary loading of a generating unit. Please refer to Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-E.
- g. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-F. For purposes of this response, the information provided represents the Day-Ahead commitment status offers to MISO for the Company's coal units for the given period.
- h. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-G. For purposes of this response, the information provided represents the Real-Time commitment status offers to MISO for the Company's coal units for the given period.
- i. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-H.

- j. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-I. For purposes of this response, marginal (variable) fuel costs ($/MWh) provided represents the fuel cost at full load for the Company's coal units for the given period. For purposes of determining costs for offering the Company's coal electric generating units into MISO, the Company uses weekly granularity; therefore, information submitted for this response is provided at a weekly granularity.
- k. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-H.
- l. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-J. For purposes of this response, Marginal variable costs of production ($/ MWh), including fuel, variable O&M, and any other variable operating costs represents the marginal variable cost of production at full load of the applicable generating unit. For purposes of determining costs for offering the Company's coal electric generating units into MISO, the Company uses weekly granularity; therefore, information submitted for this response is provided at a weekly granularity.
- m. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-H.
- n. Please see Attachment SC 1.1-K.
- o. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-L.
- p. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-L.
- q. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-M.
- r. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-N. For purposes of this response, the Heat rate (Btu/ kWh) provided represents the Incremental Heat Rate in Btu/ kWh at full load of the applicable generating unit. For purposes of determining costs for offering the Company's coal electric generating units into MISO, the Company uses weekly granularity; therefore, information submitted for this response is provided at a weekly granularity
- s. Please see Confidential Attachment SC 1.1-O. For purposes of this response, the information provided represents the Day-Ahead minimum capability (limit) offers to MISO for the Company's coal units for the given period.

Request:

Regarding Duke's unit commitment decision process for the Company's coal electric generating units:

- a. Describe Duke's process for determining whether to self-commit the Company's coal electric generation units and operate them up to at least their minimum operation levels.
- b. Describe Duke's process for determining whether to self-schedule the Company's coal electric generating units at generating levels above their minimum operation levels.
- c. Does Duke perform economic analyses to inform its unit commitment decisions for the Company's steam electric generation units (i.e., decisions regarding whether to designate these units as must run or take them offline for economic reasons)?
  - i. If not, explain why not.
  - ii. If so, provide all such analyses conducted since 2018 in native, machine readable format.
  - iii. If so, identify each category of cost and revenue accounted for in such analyses
  - iv. If so, identify whether such analyses are conducted differently for periods immediately preceding or following unit outages, and explain any differences.
  - v. If so, please indicate the timeframe over which the Company evaluates whether a unit's commitment decision maximizes a unit's economic value to customers.

Objection:

Duke Energy Indiana objects to this request as vague and ambiguous, particularly the references to "unit commitment," "dispatch" and "self-schedule." Duke Energy Indiana also objects to this request as overbroad and unduly burdensome, particularly subpart (c)'s request for "all such analyses conducted since 2018." Duke Energy Indiana further objects to this request as vague and ambiguous as to the term “economic value to customers”.

Response:

Subject to and without waiving or limiting its objections, and assuming that the reference to “commitment” means the decision to start a generator that is offline or maintain output from a generator that is already online, “dispatch” means the decision to operate a committed generator at certain level, and “self-schedule” infers operation outside of the economic dispatch signal received from MISO’s central dispatch function, Duke Energy Indiana responds as follows:

- a. The Company performs an economic review each business day to inform the commitment status decision for each coal unit. The planning process is designed to minimize the total customer cost by maximizing the unit’s economic value. This review projects expected operating margins (revenues minus variable costs) from operation of each coal unit for the next 7-14 days based on unit operating parameters and expected market prices. If a unit is expected to have a positive margin or is “in the money,” meaning that the revenues received are projected to be greater than the variable production costs, the unit may be self-committed with a commitment offer status of Must-Run. This analysis also considers factors such as uneconomic cycling of generating units across lower priced energy periods such as weekends, for unit testing, or to address other operational requirements, all in which a generation unit status of Must-Run may be utilized. Used properly, as we do, the use of a Must-Run offer reduces the overall cost to supply energy to our customers by reducing the additional costs and risk associated with the unnecessary and uneconomic cycling of longer lead time generating units.
- b. Duke Energy Indiana predominantly follows MISO dispatch signals and does not strategically self-schedule its generation resources. Self-scheduling a generating unit above its minimum load is typically only done under circumstances that are required for safety, testing, plant operational requirements, or reliability reasons. For example, environmental tests such as a stack test requires the operation of the unit at a specific output for a period of time, periods when the unit must operate at a higher output to supply steam for another unit in startup or shutdown, or times when a unit is manually or uneconomically re-dispatched as directed by MISO due to a transmission or other constraints. In addition, see Duke Energy Indiana’s response to Sierra Club 1.1 parts d -f.
- c. Duke Energy Indiana performs an economic review each business day to inform the commitment status decision for each steam unit. The planning process is designed to minimize the total customer cost by maximizing unit economic value. This review projects expected operating margins from operation of each steam unit for the next 7-14 days based on unit operating parameters and expected market prices. This review is not a complete economic analysis as it only considers expected revenue received and variable costs incurred from operation. It does not consider other operational or reliability considerations.

- i. N/A.
- ii. See objection. These files are voluminous. Due to the number of spreadsheets, Duke Energy Indiana would typically make them available for confidential viewing on-site, to the extent such spreadsheets are relevant to this FAC period. Given the current national emergency and local “stay-at-home” orders, Duke Energy Indiana will make the information available for confidential viewing via Skype Meeting at a mutually agreeable date and time, subject to the executed non-disclosure agreement.
- iii. See objection. Costs included are the unit’s variable costs, including the incremental, no-load, and startup costs. The categories of costs are fuel, emissions, and variable O&M costs. The expected energy revenues are from the MISO Day-Ahead Energy market, including the effect of congestion and losses at each generating unit’s node. Finally, note that ancillary services revenues are not included in this analysis.
- iv. See objection. The analysis is conducted in a similar manner each business day.
- v. See objection. The focus of the review is for the next 7-14 days, although the report has a projection 3 weeks into the future.

Request:

Regarding Duke's steam customer at Cayuga.

- a. Has Duke calculated the effect on the electrical customers' costs of running Cayuga when it otherwise would not have run due to the requirements to supply steam?
  - i. If the answer is yes, please provide all workpapers that show the calculations of the costs.
  - ii. If the answer is no, please explain why the calculation have not been done.
- b. Has Duke calculated the quantity of fixed costs that would have been charged to the electric customers had the steam customer not existed due to economies of scale?
  - i. If the answer is yes, please provide all workpapers that show the calculations of the costs.
- c. If the answer is no, please explain why the calculation have not been done.

Response:

- a. No. There are multiple assumptions that the Company would have to make in order to perform this calculation, including approximating the new LMP's without the generating unit operating that was supplying steam, approximating the behavior of MISO and/or other market participants in this alternate scenario, as well as the allocation of generation and costs to supply native load.
- b. No. Because of the contractual commitment to supply steam to International Paper, there is no need to perform hypothetical calculations on the impact of fixed costs to electric customers.

Request:

Regarding Edwardsport, for all hours during the period between December 1, 2019 and February 29, 2020, please indicate:

- a. Whether the plant was operating on syngas, natural gas, both, or not operating.
- b. For hours when the plant was operating on syngas, indicate whether one or both gasification trains were in operation.

Objection:

Duke Energy Indiana objects to this request to the extent it seeks a calculation or compilation that has not already been performed and that Duke Energy Indiana objects to performing.

Response:

Subject to and without waiving or limiting its objections, Duke Energy Indiana responds as follows:

- a. See objection. The site does not calculate hourly percentages for natural gas and syngas operation. Answering further, please see the chart below for available monthly natural gas and coal MMBtu consumption during December 2019 – February 2020:

	Dec-19	Jan-20	Feb-20

Request:

Please provide the Company's DA offers (including commitment status, minimum output, maximum output, and station coding), for all of its units, for the following days: December 17, 2019; January 19, 2020; and February 14, 2020. Additionally, please provide the work papers, calculations and inputs that were utilized to determine DA offer for its units for each of these three days.

Response:

See Confidential Attachments OUC 3.8-A, 3.8-B, and 3.8-C for the units Day-Ahead offers.

Calculations and inputs for Day-Ahead unit offers are contained in the Company's Energy Cost Manual. Due to the competitively sensitive nature of the Energy Cost Manual, Duke Energy Indiana would typically make it available for confidential viewing on-site. Given the current national emergency and local "stay-at-home" orders, Duke Energy Indiana will make the information available for confidential viewing via Microsoft Teams Meeting at a mutually agreeable date and time, subject to the standing non-disclosure agreement with the OUC.

Duke Energy Indiana performs an economic review each business day to inform the commitment status decision for each coal and combined cycle unit. The planning process is designed to minimize the total customer cost by maximizing unit economic value. This review projects expected operating margins from operation of each coal and combined cycle unit for the next 7-14 days based on unit operating parameters and expected market prices. This review is not a complete economic analysis as it only considers expected revenue received and variable costs incurred from operation. It does not consider other operational or reliability considerations.
